THE CENSUS IS COMING . . .

As mandated by the U.S. Constitution in Article 1, Section 2, the United States has counted its population every ten years since 1790. For the first time in 2020, the Census will be conducted primarily online. An invitation to respond to the 2020 Census online will be received in the mail on or before March 12 – 20. Residents may respond online, on paper or by telephone and the online questionnaire will be available in 12 non-English languages.

Census results determine how many seats in Congress each state gets and help determine how billions of dollars in federal funding flow into states and particular communities each year. Programs and services such as libraries; schools; infrastructure including roads; neighborhood revitalization; public safety/emergency and economic development are supported based on the data obtained from the Census.

DEGAS at the OPERA
Friday, March 13 at 11:00 AM

Throughout his entire career, the Opera formed the focal point of Degas’ paintings. He explored the theatre's various spaces and followed the dancers, singers, musicians, and audience who frequented them. The exhibition at the Musée d'Orsay from September 24, 2019 to January 19, 2020 examines not only Degas’ passionate relationship with the House and his musical tastes, but also the infinite resources of this marvelous 'toolbox'.

VIDA AMERICANA: MEXICAN MURALISTS REMAKE AMERICAN ART
Friday, April 3 at 11:00 AM

Mexico underwent a cultural transformation at the end of its Revolution in 1920. A relationship between art and the public was established and the art spoke directly to the people about social justice and national life. Artists in the United States were seeking to break free of European aesthetic domination to create publicly significant and accessible native art. American artists traveled to Mexico and the leading Mexican muralists — José Clemente Orozco, Diego Rivera, and David Alfaro Siqueiros—spent extended periods of time in the United States, executing murals, paintings, and prints; exhibiting their work; and interacting with local artists. This lecture explores the art from the Whitney Museum exhibit of the same title showing February 17 through May 17.
